Refinery Workers Strike

Halting a car at the entrance of the Braintree refinery and distribution plant of the Cities Service Oil Co., strikers bar entrance. Two hundred and fifty men walked out today. There is danger that the strike may spread to other large gasoline and fuel oil supply companies in New England. Only Army, Navy and school supply trucks are permitted to pass the picket lines. An arbitration conference has been called to effect a settlement.

Patton Is Ousted, Gets Paper Army

By WES GALLAGHER

FRANKFORT ON MAIN, Germany, Oct. 2 (AP)—It was officially announced at U. S. European headquarters today that Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., who differed with Gen. Eisenhower over denazification policies in Bavaria, had been relieved of command of the famed

LT. GEN. PATTON

Third Army he led through France. He will take over the 15th Army, which is reduced now to a "paper" organization. The 15th, which completed its job as an occupation army in July, consists of a headquarters staff and a few troops doing research work. It does not control any occupation area.

Lt. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, Jr., commanding the Fifth Army which is slated for official dissolution Dec. 1, will succeed Patton in command of the Third and of the eastern half of the American occupation zone.

The changes become effective Oct. 7.

Although no official reason was given for the transfer of the swabbling, pistol-packing Patton, it came on the heels of his widely criticized statement to newsmen Sept. 22 that some Nazis should remain in office "to insure ourselves that women, children and old men will not perish from hunger or cold this winter."

This statement brought editorial criticism in the United States, as did Patton's comparison of "this Nazi thing to the Democratic and Republican fight back home."

"You always find the 'outs' back home making charges against the 'ins,'" Patton explained.

His was in conflict with Eisenhower's stand for immediate elimination of all Nazis from office, in line with the Potsdam declaration.

Eisenhower's action came on Sept. 29, one day after Patton, summoned from his Bad Toelz headquarters to report on his stewardship of Bavaria, spent more than two hours at Frankfurt conferring with his chief.

Even before his remarks to newsmen, Patton's administration had been under investigation as an outgrowth of charges that Nazis were being kept in office.

Several high German administrators, including Friedrich Schaeffer, minister president of Bavaria, have been removed as a result of the investigation.

The present mission of the 15th Army is to prepare reports on Allied relations in the war, with recommendations for future procedure.

It was announced July 21 that the 15th had completed its job as an occupying force and the commander at that time, Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, had been named president-general of a board of American officers to make a detailed study of the European war.

The swabbling bluntpoken Patton became a storm center after he slapped a soldier during the Sicilian campaign; but Eisenhower forgave him and placed him in command of the Third Army, which later made history with its race from Normandy to Austria and Czechoslovakia.

Big 5 Near Split As Bevin Calls Molotov 'Hitlerian'

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP)—Informants high within the counsel of the Big Five Foreign Ministers' Conference said today Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov threatened to go home over the week-end after a heated argument with British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

The two have been reported at loggerheads frequently during the sessions now near a close.

The representatives of the United States, Russia, Great Britain, France and China met more than two hours today and reconvened for another session later. It seemed that even the most superficial agreement could not be reached.

Molotov was reported by persons present at the week-end exchange to have taken exception to a remark by Bevin that the Soviet commissar's methods were "Hitlerian."

The clash resulted when Molotov demanded the ministers revoke a decision of Sept. 11 on procedure, which permitted France and China to sit in on all discussions.

This is the issue which had deadlocked the conference for more than a week with Russia insisting the Potsdam decisions be adhered to with only the foreign ministers of the Big Three discussing and drafting peace treaties for the Balkans.

The report was Molotov said in effect that when the powers reached an agreement in common and afterwards one or more realized their mistake, the council should reconsider and repeal the decision.

To this, Bevin was understood to have said he had "never heard of anything more like Hitlerian methods."

Molotov walked toward the door, turned and said:

"Unless that remark is withdrawn, I am leaving the room and the conference."

A few seconds of silence elapsed. Then Bevin withdrew his remarks and Molotov returned to his chair. Later Molotov recalled previous conferences of foreign ministers he said were successful because they were held at Tehran and Moscow and because former State Secretary Hull and former British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden were present.

Molotov was reported to have told the council there were "cordial relations" during those previous sessions.

Oil, Textile, Coal Strikes Near Climax

By the Associated Press

The wave of labor disputes, hitting such key industries as coal, oil and lumber, surged onward today.

Threats of serious water shortages and other breakdowns in public services to several Texas cities ended today when AFL strikers were fired and hydro-electric operations were resumed without them.

A federal conciliator, expected today, will be told "there is nothing to conciliate."

Major stoppages during 24 hours kept 13,000 workers away from their jobs at five Frigidair plants of General Motors Corp. in Dayton, O., while in McCook, Ill., 7500 CIO members at the GM Electro-Motive Diesel division remained away from work.

In Orange, N. J., 3500 CIO United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers, employees of Thomas A. Edison Industries and Monroe Calculating Machine Co., voted to walk out.

Picket lines were strung around two plants of the SKF Industries, Inc., in Philadelphia after 3200 quit jobs.

Four divisions of the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway & Motor Coach Employees of America, representing 2700 employees of the Pacific Greyhound Bus Co., have authorized leaders to call a strike in a dispute over wages.

Plans of the independent National Federation of Telephone Workers for calling a four-hour, nation wide work stoppage by 200,000 telephone employees depend on the outcome of a collective bargaining election in Baltimore today.

An estimated 7500 to 10,000 longshoremen of the New York-New Jersey waterfront remained away from work today after voting to return to work provided they were not required to load more than a long ton of material at a time in slings used to haul cargo aboard ships.

New York's Fifth Ave. Coach Co. officials said today refusal of day employees to work overtime resulted in "dislocation of service, slowdowns and inconvenience to 190,000 people" during the morning rush.

New Oil Strike in Hub

Unable to adjust a strike of 250 employees, who walked out of the Baintree refinery and distribution plant of the Cities Service Oil Co. at 6 a. m., the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration looked hopefully toward Washington today for speedy settlement of the difficulty. Oil operators and representatives of the CIO Oil Workers' Union are meeting there at 4 p. m. today to act on Labor Secretary Schweilenbach's truce proposal and settlement of the Baintree walkout is dependent on their response to the demand for peace in the troubled oil industry.

Daniel J. Boyle, member of the State Board who conferred with CIO and Cities Service representatives, announced the deadlock and the decision to wait for Washington action.

Union members had threatened, however, the strike would spread to workers of other large oil companies, endangering the flow of gasoline and fuel oil throughout New England, unless their difficulties were adjusted speedily.

Gen. Charles H. Cole, chairman of the State board, conferred with representatives of the Shell Oil Co. and representatives of another local of the CIO union in a repeated effort to settle the walkouts at the company's Cambridge and Waltham plants, with equal lack of success.

"We won't have them in here again," he said in announcing the stalemate, "until it is apparent there is some hope of bringing them together."

At the Baintree plant, strikers gathered at the gates and turned back all trucks approaching the plant. Only Army and Navy trucks and those with credentials for supplies for schools and hospitals were permitted to obtain their requirements.

Oil dealers were fearful the walkout might spread to employees of the American, Jenny and Quincy Oil Cos., especially in view of the report of CIO leaders that assurance had been given by the National Maritime Union that tankers bringing crude oil to refineries would not be unloaded if the strike took in the other large companies.

These moves, forcing the oil labor situation to a climax, followed announcements of labor problems in the telephone and textile industries.

Mariano S. Bishop, northern director of the Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, demanded federal permission for a strike vote Nov. 1 in 70 New England cotton and rayon mills, employing 60,000 workers. The union demands a minimum wage increase from $7 to $8 cents an hour.

Boston long distance telephone operators announced they would meet Thursday to consider joining a nationwide work stoppage. Local telephone service would not be affected by the demonstration.

On the brighter side, the Needle Trade Employers' Ass'n of Fall River announced signing of an agreement with the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union (AFL), covering 6000 workers, believed to be the first of its kind in the country.

It provides for closed shops, overtime pay after eight hours standard payments in a health and welfare fund operated by the union, maintenance of a health center, uniform minimum conditions, negotiation on wage increases and vacations with pay.

President William E. Smith of the Oil Workers Baintree local issued a statement outlining the strike aims. He said:

"The workers are striking for 52 hours' pay for 40 hours' work or less and this strike is in sympathy with oil workers in the field."

"Trucks will cease handling any products other than emergency supplies. They will service hospitals, fire and police stations, the Army and Navy, and houses of sickness where the residents can

Globester Now On Return Trip

By INEZ ROBB

Staff Correspondent of Boston American and International News Service on 'Round the World Flight

ABOARD GLOBESTER, En Route to Guam, Oct. 2—Travel may be broadening, but in the Globester it has many narrow spots. When I return home—and we're on our way to Guam now—I'm going to hire Burton Holmes to give me a lantern slide lecture on what I missed on this global tour.

It has been my dubious distinction to fly across the vast width of China without seeing so much as a joss house or a paddy field.

This gives a faint idea of the speed of this global flight.

It was pitch black when the Globester flew out of Burma and over The Hump into China last

BULLETIN

GUAM, Wednesday, Oct. 3 (AP)—The globe-girdling Globester arrived at Guam at 1 a. m. today (10 a. m. Tuesday, Eastern Standard Time).

half way over The Hump, and only dozed the rest of the way, so I gladly took White's suggestion.

I slept like a log for five hours, the longest sleep I've had since the Globester left the States.

I'd asked the boys to wake me at daylight so that I could catch a glimpse of China. I have a vague recollection of Capt. Warth shaking me, saying:

"Look now. The scenery is fascinating."

I remember pressing my nose to the window for a split second before collapsing back on the floor in sound sleep. I faintly recall seeing an endless fantastic Shangri-La landscape of green hills, but nothing more.

When I awoke over the China Sea, that is all I could remember of one of the world's biggest nations. Apparently, I was out on my feet, even in Kunming.

I can't remember much about an hour's stay there, except seeing two or three Chinese on the airfield and more serving breakfast in the mess hall.

Kunming comes back to me as the first cold spot we've hit. It is 6240 feet above sea level, and at 4 a. m. I shivered in a heavy coat.

Mae Wests made their second appearance on the journey because we were flying over water. I still itched to inflate mine, but feared official wrath.

Believe it or not, we were over halfway around the world without even tasting native food. At every place we've stopped we were provided with sumptuous banquets, but inevitably a strictly American menu, leaning heavily to steaks, roast beef and fried chicken.

I haven't eaten so well since the war began, but the food isn't sticking to my ribs.

The men say I will have to get either a belt or suspenders in Manila to hold up my slacks. My hips are no longer equal to the job.

Tobin, Sullivan Talk Of Big Crime Wave

Gov. Tobin, concerned over the outbreak of lawlessness in Greater Boston, today conferred with Police Commr. Sullivan to determine what action police were taking to combat the growing series of violent crimes which have included robberies, kidnappings and safe cracking.

The Governor announced after his talk with Sullivan he was assured the police were "on the alert and doing everything in their power" to stem the growing tide of crime.

"Since the crimes have all been of a local nature, there is no need of the State getting into it," he said.

Sullivan blamed the crime wave on "a lot of fellows who have been getting easy money in war plants." He said they were seeking other means to get "easy money" since their wages had been shut off with the end of the war.

He defended efforts of the department to catch the gangs of robbers and yeggmen who have been increasingly active since mid-September.

"I'm satisfied from talking with my officers that this is a new crop of thieves and we'll catch up with them as we always do. We definitely will do so in this situation," he declared.

"The officers are doing their very best and I'll stand back of them as long as I know they are trying."

While the Governor and Sullivan were discussing the problem, a special squad of 11 desk lieutenants, chosen for their records as "crook catchers," were seeking the gang that broke into the Brennan laundry in Kent st., Brookline, and escaped with $1000 in cash and $1500 in war bonds. Patrolman Charles Rozantos discovered the break while trying doors on his route. Investigation disclosed the cracksmen had pounded off the safe doors with sledges.

In Wilmington, a trio of stop-light bandits got away after being chased four miles and finally smashing the machine of their victim, William Hovey of Glenn rd., Wilmington.

Patrolman George Fuller, who had fired several shots during a chase through most of Wilmington, pulled Hovey from the wreckage but could not nab the bandits.

Hovey said they had commandeered his machine at gunpoint when he stopped for a red light at the Wilmington-Reading line and had taken $56 from him. Two Somerville youths, one a juvenile, were held for questioning in that city after police discovered two loaded revolvers in a Gilman st. cellar and a machine gun of German make in another cellar in Boston.

In a teletype broadcast to other departments, Somerville officials reported the two youths, carrying guns, were in the Scollay sq. area Saturday and Sunday nights and had plotted a Washington st. jewelry store holdup which they did not carry out.

A Dorchester man, Harry L. Oshy of Morton st., reported to police thieves had entered his parked car in Fulton st., North End, and stolen $300 in cash from a glove compartment.

The desk lieutenants were picked as a "first team" by Supt. Edward W. Fallon and assigned

3000 Vets Wait in Rain For Devens Truck Sale

FT. DEVENS, Oct. 2—Hungry and drenched by rain, 3000 discharged veterans, many of them accompanied by their wives, still waited this afternoon for the start of a sale of surplus Army trucks, scheduled to have begun at 8:30 a. m.

At intervals, apologies were made to them for the delay, caused by failure of a price list of the trucks to arrive from the Department of Commerce.

But no one could do anything about providing shelter for them from the driving rain and noon passed without any of them being able to obtain food.

They had come from all parts of New England, veterans with honorable discharges, each seeking to buy a truck to aid him in earning a living.

At 3 p. m. they still were waiting patiently, a habit they had learned in the service, but still there was no sign of the missing list.

Meanwhile, they were allowed to select trucks that interested them but there could be no sales until the price list came.

The trucks were to be disposed of by the Department of Commerce, Office of Surplus Supplies, through the Smaller War Plants Corp.

Repeal would cut 1946 individual tax burdens by $2,085,000,000 and relieve an estimated 12,000,000 low-income persons from any income taxes after this year.

The committee voted down two substitutes to the administration program offered by Rep. Knutson (R.) of Minnesota. One, instead of outright repeal, would have reduced the normal tax to 2 instead of 3 per cent. The other proposed to put the normal tax at 1 per cent. The normal tax is collected on all personal net income over $500, regardless of the number of taxpayers' dependents.

Its repeal is the top point in the program submitted by Treasury Secretary Vinson, for a peacetime 1946 overall tax cut of $5,000,000,000, including repeal of the 95 per cent excess profits tax.

Rep. Carlson (R.) of Kansas was ready with a motion that, instead of repealing the normal tax, would simply apply surtax exemptions to the normal levy. Under the surtax exemptions each taxpayer gets a $500 exemption for himself and each dependent.

If the Carlson proposal carries, the Republicans then are expected to offer a proposal for an "across the board" reduction of individual taxes of 10, 15, or 20 per cent.

A spot poll indicated that the committee would give speedy approval to the bill and send it to the House for a vote.

Defense Opens In Gallarelli Case

Opening the defense of Samuel J. Gallarelli, 24, charged with the murder of John E. MacKenzie, 39, ex-convict, in Middlesex Superior Court today, Atty. Francis Juggins said he would attempt to show the killing was accidental in a struggle for MacKenzie's gun.

Describing MacKenzie as "quarrelsome and obnoxious" when drinking, Juggins declared the defense would contend he drew the gun when Gallarelli resented his abusing and striking Mrs. Gallarelli.

He said Gallarelli would testify to meeting MacKenzie in Boston and going with him to the former's home in Windsor rd., Medford, to prove to him that a girl friend of MacKenzie's was not there, and that the actions of the victim there led to the fatal struggle.

The defendant's story to police that he had a rendezvous with another woman in a Boston hotel on the night of the killing was described by Juggins as "fiction," which was told with a purpose the defense will endeavor to show.

Juggins made his opening after his motion for a directed verdict of not guilty had been denied by Judge Abraham E. Pinanski when the State rested its case in the morning session.

Hirohito Flings Charge Of 'Liar' at Army Chief

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2 (AP)—American Broadcasting Co. Correspondent Larry Tighe reported from Tokyo today that Emperor Hirohito flatly accused his Army chief of staff of lying to him, in their final, tense, pre-surrender conference, precipitating the general's suicide. Tighe did not divulge the source of his report.

"The cabinet split at this meeting," Tighe said, "over whether to continue the war. Tighe said. The cabinet attended in a body and met with Adm. Mitsumasa Yozai, Naval chief of staff, and Gen. Kotochika Anami, Army chief of staff."

"The emperor turned finally to Adm. Yozai and asked, 'Does Japan have any chance in continuing the war?'" Tighe continued. "The admiral bowed and replied, 'I greatly regret, but from the navy's point of view, Japan has no chance. It is better to surrender now.'"

"Turning to Gen. Anami, the emperor repeated his question. The general paused and then blurted, 'Give me one more battle. A battle on Japan, and I can turn the tide.'"

"Hirohito looked piercingly at his chief of staff, and then, as if his mind were already made up about ending the war, crushed Anami by asking, 'Are you still lying to me?'"

"Anami" flushed and bowed. Completely humiliated, he backed from the room, and immediately ripped open his stomach with his dagger.

"Shortly afterward, a message of acceptance of the Potsdam declaration was dispatched to President Truman," Tighe concluded.

Una Merkel Plight Shock to Friends

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2—Friends of Una Merkel, and she has many in Los Angeles, will be shocked to hear the story behind her being very ill in Glendale Research Hospital. Una's mother committed suicide on March 5 in New York and Una was overcome. For days it seemed as if she would not live. She recovered and came to Hollywood hopeful of returning to the screen, for she is one of our most brilliant comedienne.

Una Merkel

Producer Nunnally Johnson promised her a part in "Home Is the Sailor." He said, "There is no role for you in the movie but I'll write one in." Then the picture was postponed and she became more depressed.

According to Una's physician, Dr. William E. Branch, the death of her mother was a severe shock. All she needs is rest and kindness.

When I heard Una was sick I telephoned her father, Arno Merkel, who came here from North Carolina. He placed her in Glendale Research Hospital.

"I am told a complete rest will get Una on her feet and she will be able to return to the screen," he explained.

Unfortunately, Una's friends were never able to find her and neither did she call them at any time. She was very depressed after the death of her mother because she felt she might have prevented it.

Her father feels if she had only gone to her friends and told them she was here they might have helped and much of this unhappiness could have been avoided.

Fashion Show Idea Fizzles

It seemed a splendid idea to see how his sailor pal would look in civilian clothing—but today Mariano Letterio, 26, of Julian pl., Roxbury, agreed that it was more like breaking and entering.

He pleaded guilty to the charge and was given a six-month suspended sentence and probation for one year by Judge John E. Swift in Suffolk Superior Court.

Special Officer Joseph Cullinane testified that Letterio and his sailor pal, James Murphy, of Blue Hill ave., Roxbury, were celebrating the start of the latter's 15-day leave in extremely liquid fashion.

Strolling along Blue Hill ave. with an occasional interlude of wrestling, they bumped against the door of Samuel Miller's tailor shop and found it open.

Murphy started trying on suits, casting them to the floor if they did not meet his companion's approval. They had emptied most of the racks when police cut short the impromptu fashion show.

Murphy was given a suspended sentence and turned over to Naval authorities.

U. S. Women Do Not Bathe Enough, Perfumer Charges

By JEANETTE SMITS

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (INS)—Esme of Paris came forward today with a statement which challenged the world-wide and well-established tradition of the good grooming of American women.

"American women don't take enough baths," said the green-eyed and vivacious perfumer.

Esme, contrary to her title, isn't of Paris, nor is she French. She's an American girl, born Esmeralda Consuela Delgado de Holland in West Virginia, now the wife of Robert Matz, Jr.

She was former aerialist with the Sells-Floto circus, then a ballet dancer who appeared with Pavlova and Nijinski. She founded her nation-wide perfume business in 1940.

"The majority of American women use perfume as a deodorant," she contended. "There should be a mystery about perfuming. It should never be applied in public, but alone and behind closed doors."

Esme has a novel idea as to where perfume should be applied—on the kneecap only.

"By applying it only on the kneecaps," she continued, "the woman who does not have time for a full bath before changing her daytime for her evening scent—with a different message—has only her kneecaps to wash thoroughly."

Congress OK Launches Vast State Roads Job

Massachusetts is waiting only for official word from U.S. Senate before embarking on a huge $20,000,000 postwar highway and road building program, State Public Works Commr. Herman A. MacDonald declared today. The State will act under provisions of a gigantic outlay of more than $3,000,000 by the government in the next three years for post-war road building and employment.

"Senate approval voted today makes more than $10,000,000 available for Massachusetts road building and the State already has appropriated a sum to match this federal grant," said MacDonald.

MacDonald said Massachusetts would get some of its road projects started this fall and estimated that contracts for $3,250,000 worth of work would be signed before the end of the year.

A rapid start on the State's highway projects would enable from 1000 to 1500 to be employed this fall, MacDonald said.

"Projects on which work can be started immediately," he said, "include a continuation of Route 128 from Danvers to Beverly and work on a highway from Leominster, bypassing Fitchburg, on Route 2."

"There is plenty of grading and filling to be done on other parts of Route 2, as well as some highway construction from the Concord traffic circle westward."

Under the federal program, the State will be allotted $6,612,615 for construction of urban highways and $2,942,968 for State highways. A further grant of $86,683 for secondary or feeder roads brings the total grant to $10,342,266 each year for three years.

The State must match the federal grant dollar for dollar each year during the three years the program is in effect.

Massachusetts also has a $17,000,000 stake in the vast program of the Federal Works Agency for expending $193,000,000 in federal building projects throughout the nation and in U. S. territories.

Legislation already has been submitted to Congress by the FWA and Post Office Department jointly for construction of public health service hospitals, post offices, courthouses, immigration stations and federal office buildings.

The Massachusetts projects, totaling $17,174,000, include district post offices, a federal office building and a marine hospital in the Boston area.

High Point Navy Men Dock Here

With only stevedores and Navy public relations officers to welcome them, 26 Navy men, including three from Greater Boston, arrived at Castle Island from Europe today aboard the S. S. Gateway City, first transport to dock here carrying naval personnel exclusively.

Every Navy man aboard was due for prompt discharge. They were part of the first contingent of sailors to go overland from Ostend, Belgium, to Bremerhaven last May.

Lt. Brenton W. Roberts of West Falmouth, formerly of Arlington Heights, was in command of the unit.

Included among the Greater Boston returnees were WO A. F. Rush of Cummins hwy, Roslindale, and MM 1c Bernard A. Harvey of Hawthorne rd., West Roxbury.

Two other ships, the Marine Robin and the Thomas Page, will arrive late today. The Robin has 2760 troops, including 165 New Englanders. Aboard the Page are 757, of whom 33 are New England men.

Bradley Cuts Red Tape to Aid Vets

CHICAGO, Oct. 2 (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, veterans' administrator, said today he had taken steps to "cut red tape, simplify forms and make our service easy to get."

Modernizing procedures will be part of the job of a new division of organization, planning and coordination, he told the Veterans of Foreign Wars 46th national encampment.

Gen. Bradley, commander of the 12th Army group in Europe, said when he came into the Veterans' Administration he found it was geared to serve 4,000,000 vets on a peacetime basis and "threatened to choke on 15,000,000 more."

Adm. Nimitz Hoiled In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2 (AP)—Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, homeward bound by air, will be welcomed with a parade and reception in this bustling port city after his naval air transport plane lands at the Oakland air base today.

His trip will be climaxed Friday when he makes a report in Washington before a joint session of Congress.

Eats Way to Jail

CLEVELAND, Oct. 2 (AP)—A 34-year-old Cleveland laborer was in city jail today because of his appetite.

He was charged with the theft of roast beef, soup, salad, pie, coffee, wieners and beans from a drugstore, where, police said, he dined for a week without paying his check.

His habit of polishing off one meal and ordering a second intrigued the waitresses, who said his check always ran between $1.20 and $1.50.

The cashier was unable to find any single checks totaling more than a dollar. So the store manager had the man eat his two full meals, pocket his check and saunter out.

At the police station, the man surrendered a large package he was carrying. It contained a whopping lunch.

120 Aussies Send War Brides Home

SEATTLE, Oct. 2 (AP)—North American war brides—120 of them with 30 babies—were bound for new homes in Australia today, reversing the trend which has brought many Australian young women to this continent.

The girls, including two citizens of the United States, all met and married officers or men of the Royal Australian Air Force who trained in Canada.

Also in the party, which left late last night by special train on the final North American lap of the exodus, were 20 brides-to-be, whose fiancés await them in Australia. Members of the party said they were to sail later in the week from San Francisco.

MILDLY INCONVENIENT—"Mike," the rooster, was decapitated two weeks ago when his owner, L. A. Olsen of Fruitland, Cal., decided to have a fricassee. Only slightly irritated by the operation, "Mike" continued to live and walk about as usual. Here, Olsen holds "Mike's" head in one hand and the eye-dropper he uses to feed him in the other. Scientists of the U. of Utah are going to investigate.

Sugar Rationing Seen to Mid-'46

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2 (INS)—An Agriculture Department spokesman predicted today civilian sugar supplies might increase next June if the prospective 196 crop in Cuba survives weather damage.

Prospects are described as "fair." A catastrophic drought slashed the 1945 crop to 3,525,000 tons, more than half a million tons below the 1944 output.

Agriculture sources estimated civilians in 1945 would receive 850,000 tons less than last year, thus forcing continuance of industrial and consumer rationing until mid-1946 or later.

Hingham Frauds To Highest Court

Eight former Bethlehem-Hingham shipyard employes, whose appeals from convictions of conspiracy to defraud the government by payroll padding were denied by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, prepared today to carry their case to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Atty. Joseph Kruger, their counsel, initiated the action by obtaining a stay of mandate from the clerk of the court of appeals to block their imprisonment in the first move to carry the case to the high court.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Joseph M. Hargrove, who was ready to prosecute some 90 other former welders and counters on similar charges next Tuesday, will be forced to postpone action until the appeal is decided.

Gould Suit Issue To High Court

By agreement of counsel in Suffolk Superior Court today, the question of whether Boston School Supt. Arthur L. Gould is required to make recommendations for promotion from the existing headmasters' list was sent to the Supreme Judicial Court for decision.

Supt. Gould had just been recalled to the stand in the hearing on the petition of Paul B. Cruden, head of the Boston Trade School printing department, for a writ of mandamus to compel Gould to make such recommendations when the agreement of counsel was announced.

During yesterday's session, Judge J. Arthur Esler had tried unsuccessfully to get opposing counsel to agree to refer the case to the Supreme Court.

Mercy Flight of New Drug Futile

The long fight to save the life of Harvey Zais, 13, of Fall River, during which the Army and Gov. Tobin joined to provide a rare drug for him, ended today at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital when he died from tubercular meningitis.

The new drug, streptomycin, was flown to Boston from Chicago last August through the efforts of the Governor, Army officials and hospital attaches.

Permission to release the drug was obtained from the surgeon general at Washington, and Abbott Laboratory officials in Chicago started the drug on its way east.

Kramer Denies All Brutality at Belsen

By WILLIAM FRYE

LUENEBURG, Germany, Oct. 2 (AP)—The prosecution read into the War Crimes Court records today a statement in which the chief defendant, Josef Kramer, denied reports of mass executions in gas chambers in the Oswiecim concentration camp.

The case against Kramer and 44 other Germans for crimes at Oswiecim and Belsen was being completed swiftly.

Capt. S. M. Stewart, prosecution counsel, read the statement for an hour and 20 minutes without objection. In it, Kramer said he had complete confidence in the camp guards and "I was satisfied I had done all I could to remedy conditions before the British arrived."

The statement termed horror reports from Oswiecim, subject of hours of testimony by witnesses at Kramer's trial, "untrue from beginning to end." The statement was signed soon after the Belsen camp was taken. Kramer formerly had commanded the Oswiecim camp before being transferred to Belsen.

Kramer asserted that trans-

2 Quit City Jobs To Back Reilly

Two more city officials, including a brother of Gov. Tobin, today resigned their municipal positions to join the campaign to elect former Fire Comr. William A. Reilly as mayor.

Timothy F. Tobin quit his job on the Boston Transit Commission and Hugh J. Campbell gave up the post of institutions commissioner. Both were appointed by former Mayor Tobin.

Campbell notified Mayor Kerrigan he wished to return to private law practice, but told reporters later "I'll go along with Arthur Reilly."

His letter to Kerrigan stated: "I want to thank you for your many kindnesses and I will always cherish the thoughts of my associations with you both as a private citizen and a public servant."

Their resignations came less than 24 hours after three other city officials gave up their jobs to join the Reilly camp.

Mayor Kerrigan today appointed Thomas F. McCready, Jamaica Plain insurance broker, to succeed Francis J. Fay of Rosindale as city registrar. Fay was one of the two who resigned yesterday. The others were Zangwill Sher of Dorchester, assistant corporation counsel, and John J. Grigalus of South Boston, member of the board of assessors.

Court May Pierce Kent Case Secrecy

By DAVID SENTER

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—Mystery surrounding the conviction and imprisonment by a secret British court of Tyler Kent, young code clerk in the American embassy in London, promises to be partially lifted next month before the United States Court of Claims.

The court of claims, where an action for back salary for the young diplomat is pending, has granted a postponement of argument until Nov. 5 to Don M. Harlan of Detroit, attorney for Kent, in order that Kent and Harlan might confer after Kent's release from jail Oct. 5.

Kent's own story is expected to be revealed for the first time in the litigation.

The contents of the coded messages, purportedly communications between President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill relating to America's entrance into the war, which Kent was charged with having copied and transmitted to an enemy agent, may finally be made public.

In his motion for a postponement, Atty. Harlan pointed out that he had brought the suit for back salary on purely legal grounds and without benefit of consulting with his client who has been in a British jail for five years.

Kent's attorney charges the government has suppressed the true nature of copies of coded messages illegally seized from him by police of a foreign power in violation of diplomatic immunities.

Mrs. William P. Kent asserts her son believed the messages would involve the United States in the war.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 2 (AP)—

VICKS VATRO-NOL

Charging that many motion pictures are "just colleges on crimes," Chairman Lorne Middough of the California legislative committee on crime prevention and correction disclosed that representatives of the motion picture industry will be asked to present their views on movies and juvenile delinquency at a hearing soon in Los Angeles.

What was termed "over dramatization of crime" by the radio received strong criticism from the committee yesterday as one of the contributory influences to increases in youth delinquency.

"I do not think that newspapers offend as much as the movies and the radio," Middough declared. "They simply report the news."

GI Yule Gift Drive Nearing Deadline

Only two weeks remain for those who wish to enlist in the Christmas Gifts for Buddies Overseas campaign sponsored by the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser, in which packages are to be sent to chaplains throughout the world for distribution to servicemen and women.

You can brighten Christmas for some otherwise forgotten service man or woman stationed in some lonely outpost by filling out and mailing the accompanying coupon immediately.

You will receive in return the name of a chaplain, stationed overseas either at a Navy base or with an Army division, who will distribute your gift to the men and women of all faiths within his unit who have no families of their own.

This is a different procedure from last year, when gifts were sent direct to individual soldiers, sailors, Marines or Coast Guardsmen. Because so many service people are in process of transfer or on the way home this year, the Christmas packages will be sent to the overseas chaplains to distribute.

Last year a Worcester woman, 39-year-old mother of seven children, who held a war job nights, found time, not only to send a Christmas package to an overseas serviceman, but also belonged to a club which sent letters and packages regularly to 18 others.

This year the club has disbanded, there being no further need of its services, so she is asking for the privilege of sending Christmas packages to two overseas servicemen. "I'm happy to see so many of the boys are coming home," she wrote, "and now want to help the ones who are still overseas, because they still need us."

Q—My son has recently been discharged and says he received only $100 mustering-out pay. Isn't he entitled to more than that? He has been overseas also. J. G. Medford.

A—The soldier is entitled to $100 mustering-out pay as he has had overseas service. He receives this amount in monthly installments of $100 each; the first one is paid at the time of his discharge.

Q—Is a captain entitled to mustering-out pay? My husband has been in service for seven years and I've been told that the extra pay he draws for length of service makes him ineligible for the mustering-out pay. Is this so? W. D. Melrose.

A—No. The above officer would be in the third pay period with base pay of $200 per month and, therefore, is entitled to receive mustering-out pay when honorably separated from active duty, unless he is eligible to receive retirement pay.

Q—I have been receiving $37 Family Allowance from my son, because I worked part time and had some income from that. The doctor has told me not to work through the winter. Can the $37 be increased? M. K. Brighton.

A—The $37 can be increased to $50 if you are dependent upon the soldier for chief support. An itemized statement of your monthly living expenses and income should be completed, and with a doctor's statement regarding your inability to work, mailed to Office of Dependency Benefits, Newark, N. J., with request that your case be reviewed for chief support.

Q—My husband was killed in action. Am I entitled to the $100 Mass. State bonus as his widow? J. P. Hingham.

A—It is suggested that you request application form and instructions from Bonus Division, 13 Ashburton pl., Boston.

Q—I am a widow and receive an allotment of $37 from my married son in the service. I have just been notified that my checks in the future will be decreased on account of my son's baby which was born recently. Could you tell me how much I am to get? J. S. Waltham.

A—The allotment will not be decreased because of the addition of a child. It is suggested that you mail the notification to the Personal Affairs Branch, First Service Command, Boston 15, Mass., and an explanation will be furnished.

Q—My son has been in the Army 41 months, 38 of them overseas. He has a total of 84 points and is eligible for discharge. Being in the Pacific theater, do you think he will be returned home soon? "Anxious Mother," Fall River.

A—Army authorities this past week stated that high point men in the Pacific area are being returned as fast as possible. He should be home by Christmas if shipping plans are carried through according to schedule.

to police headquarters to give their undivided attention to the current series of crimes.

Assigned to cruiser car duty and provided with arms to meet anything from a $2 holdup to a bank robbery, they were made into a squad similar to that with which the late Capt. Livingston broke up the crime wave of the roaring '20s.

Their first night, hardly a fair test, was not spectacularly productive. The police lineup this morning was made up of 11 persons, a typical average. Of 12 witnesses who had been harmed, only one sailor could identify his robber.

An alleged hotel prowler was in the line. His manner of getting money was to hire a room on a hotel's third floor, fire escape side, and climb to rooms of guests who had gone out. He was arrested, police said, after gleaming a few dollars and one hat.

Six boys, ranging in age from 17 to 20, were in the lineup because of an attempted store break in Everett. Four admitted it.

Tokyo Hoax

TOKYO, Oct. 2 (INS)—Either some GI was pulling a fast one on Mr. Suzuki, or Mr. Suzuki was doing the same to a Tokyo newspaper today.

With a straight face, the paper Mainichi printed a story saying Mr. Suzuki, an employee in the commerce and industry ministry in Yokohama, entertained "Cpl. James Cagney," the film star, at his home. Cagney has never been in military service.

The other two denied participation.

And there was one man who said he wasn't going to tell the police a thing unless he could have advice of counsel.

While police were trying to catch up with the growing backlog of crimes, three more acts of violence were added to the lists.

Included in the latter were the knife-point holdup of a taxi driver in Roxbury, the holdup of a young man and woman in the Back Bay and the unsuccessful attempt to capture a Roxbury housebreaker, despite the firing of shots.

The crime toll outside Boston limits mounted also, with a woman being kidnaped and robbed in Brookline and a new appearance of the famous "Mutt and Jeff" bandits in a gas station holdup in Salem.

Latest on the Boston front was the robbing of Oscar Miller, 31, of Seaver st., Roxbury, a cab driver, of $9.50 at knife-point by two Negro youths whom he picked up and drove to Coventry st., Roxbury.

At the same time, Harvey W. Tessier of Deen ct., Roxbury, reported that a limping bandit took $13 from him at gunpoint as he stopped his automobile not far from police headquarters.

The gunman did not molest Tessier's companion, Miss Sandra Stacchini, 22, of Kennard st., West End, and he missed an additional $30 Tessier had in a coat lying on the back seat of the machine.

In Roxbury, Patrolman John MacFarlane spied a Negro attempting to break into a house on Maywood st. He gave chase, fired several shots but the man got away.

The "Mutt and Jeff" bandits, blamed yesterday for the $1500 robbery at the McCarthy Bros. Milk Co. plant in Roxbury, made their next appearance in Salem where they took $500 from Vincent LeBaron, proprietor of a gas station in Vine sq.

In Brookline, Miss Lois Seeckell of William st., Brookline, was held up and kidnaped by a gun toting youth when she stopped her machine for a red light at St. Paul st.

He ordered her to drive to Babcock st., near Braves Field, and then told her to get out of the car. The machine was found later in Allston with the victim's empty pocketbook, from which $5 had been taken.

Dresses worth $384 were stolen from a hallway in Kneeland st. while Anthony Bellio, owner of a Leominster dress shop, was on a buying mission in downtown Boston.

produce a doctor's certificate of need.

"We want to make it perfectly clear that in no way do we wish to hamper the return of veterans from overseas, and we will supply the armed services with their regular allotments of fuel oil and gasoline.

"We will service public utilities in the case of emergencies, as for instance a bad storm or an act of God.

"Our unanimous strike vote was taken Sunday. There will be about 300 independent Cities Service dealers in metropolitan Boston affected by the strike. The plant at Braintree will be picketed."

Robert Mills, business agent of the National Maritime Union's Boston agency, declined to discuss reports maritime members would refuse to unload tankers if the oil strike spreads.

In the textile dispute, the strike vote will be taken within 30 days, under provisions of the Smith-Connelly Act, unless manufacturers and the Textile Workers Union reach an agreement in negotiations which began several weeks ago.

Schwellenbach's Offer Carries 15 Pct. Pay Hike

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2 (AP)—CIO oil workers and 15 oil companies, locked in controversy over wages, today studied a government peace proposal calling for a temporary 15 per cent pay increase, and agreement on both sides to accept an arbitrator's final settlement. Acceptance could bring an immediate end to strikes which began Sept. 16 and spread to 14 states.

Latest hit area is the West Coast. Pacific military and naval supplies thereby were jeopardized. Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach presented this peace plan.

1—Immediate return to work by the 36,000 striking union members and full resumption of operations by management.
2—Return to a 40-hour working schedule "as soon as manpower availability permits," with an increase of 15 per cent or its equivalent in the basic pay rate.
3—Agreement to accept the findings of an impartial arbitrator on the differences between the union's demand for 30 per cent and the companies' counter offer of 15.

LIVERPOOL STRIKE GROWS
LIVERPOOL, Oct. 2 (AP)—Fourteen thousand workers were idle today in a spreading dockers' strike, and port officials and union leaders said they expected the entire Mersey dock system would soon be affected.

"Was I WRONG, back in 1945!"

1. "As I look back now, Pearl Harbor seems like only yesterday. That's when I was made head draftsman. The hours were long, but the pay was just double what I'd ever made before. For once, money was the one thing I had plenty of.

2. "I was tempted to spend my money, but I didn't. I figured prices would come down after the war—and I'd get what I needed then, when things were plentiful. So I got along with what I had, and saved all the extra cash I could.

3. "That was my golden opportunity to get ahead. Before I knew it, I had a raft of War Bonds, some more life insurance, and a nice little nest egg in savings. We had plans for sending the boy to college, and maybe taking life easier later on.

4. "Then goods started coming back—and I weakened! I should have held off and taken it slow and easy. But I felt safe, so I bargained out and bought twice as much as I really needed. Before I realized, most of my savings had gone up in smoke.

5. "I might have been sitting pretty by now, if I'd only kept my head. Saving that money was the best thing I ever did—but I didn't use it wisely when I had it. Here I am—ten years later—right back where I started. Was I WRONG, back in 1945!"

Life Insurance Companies in America

and their agents

... to cooperate with our government in preserving the financial health of the nation

BUT IT IS STILL 1945. If we use our savings wisely now, we can help to avoid inflationary price increases . . . and at the same time maintain backlogs for the kind of future we all desire. If we spend our money carelessly now, we may look back some day with regret.

During the war, millions of Americans saved to protect their families, to educate their children, to start a business of their own, to own their own home, to retire. Today they are still following the advice of our Government, buying only what they really need until civilian goods are plentiful, holding on to their War Bonds and life insurance, and maintaining their savings accounts. Are you one of them?

America's life insurance companies are sponsoring this program of information as a public service to the 70,000,000 owners of life insurance and to every American citizen.

Reveal Truman Plea for Jews

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2 (AP)—President Truman's communication to British Prime Minister Attlee concerning Jewish immigration to Palestine was described in the Senate today as a proposal that 100,000 homeless Jews be sent there immediately.

Sens. Johnson (D.) of Colorado and Taft (R.) of Ohio said that was the President's suggestion.

The White House disclosed last week-end Mr. Truman had written the British prime minister about the plight of Jews in Europe, but did not make known details. Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters today no reply had been received from Attlee.

Senator after Senator arose to applaud the President's reported action.

Fined for Pushing Motorman Around

Bruno Haas of Metropolitan ave., Hyde Park, was fined $10 each on two counts in West Roxbury court today by Judge Daniel W. Casey for "interfering with operation of a street car" and assault and battery on Motorman Joseph M. O'Loughlin of Thurlow st., West Roxbury.

According to testimony, Haas boarded a Jamaica Arborway car last night at 10:30, out of Park Street, and when asked by O'Loughlin to move back in the car started shoving and pushing the motorman, interfering with his running of the car. Officer William J. O'Brien of Station 13, Jamaica Plain, arrested Haas after the car had stopped on South st., near Rose st.

Here is a remarkable photograph of the hero as he corrects proofs of his story.

AND SO, My Fellow Countrymen, today I report to you that your sons and daughters have served you well and faithfully with the calm, deliberate, determined fighting spirit of the American soldier and sailor. THEY ARE HOMEWARD BOUND—TAKE CARE OF THEM.—GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR.

HELP OTHERS TO HELP SELVES

IN THE WAKE of decisive military victories on all fronts, this country is faced with challenging and knotty problems. The impending anarchy and economic dissolution in large sections of Europe, for example, are a far cry from the propagandist promise of "a brave new world."

Hunger and fear threaten to drive additional rudderless people into the arms of the Communists, who are skillful in making glamorous promises which they happen to be unable to fulfill.

Having already dumped hundreds of billions in the war effort, the American people are being importuned to continue the flow of largess. In this critical situation, we as a people should recognize that we face a CONDITION—not a THEORY.

Irrespective of the wisdom or lack thereof in departing from traditional American policies of non-interference, we did invest our treasure and our precious manpower in foreign fields.

Having thus become entangled, we cannot—even if we would—become disentangled overnight.

BUT WE OWE IT TO OURSELVES AND TO ALL HUMANITY TO EMPLOY OUR STRENGTH AND OUR KNOW-HOW ALONG CONSTRUCTIVE LINES. WE SHOULD REFUSE TO BE PUTTY IN THE HANDS OF FOREIGN MANIPULATORS WHO ARE TRYING TO EXPLOIT OUR WELL KNOWN GENEROSITY AND CREDULITY.

We should not ask the United States Treasury to go farther into debt merely to dump American resources into a bottomless pit.

In accordance with Bernard M. Baruch's wise advice we should undertake to help other peoples to resume helping themselves, so that when the next crop year occurs we can withdraw our subsidies and our gifts.

We should not further burden the already greatly harassed American taxpayer if counter efforts and maneuvers by our former war associates will offset the benefits which we intend to confer.

OUR GOAL SHOULD BE TO RESTORE PRODUCTION WHICH HAS BEEN INTERRUPTED, SO THAT OTHER PEOPLES CAN BEGIN TO STAND ON THEIR OWN LEGS FINANCIALLY AT THE EARLIEST POSSIBLE TIME.

In such a short-term program of winding up our participation in the war, we should specify precisely how our dollars should be employed.

We should make such interim financial aid conditional on pursuing policies which fulfill the objectives of the United States Government.

In the face of the impending crisis, we Americans should stop the policy of drifting, appeasing and being pushed around, and should constructively lay down the terms and conditions on which we will cooperate to end the march of insolvency, hunger and economic dissolution.

BEST ADVICE

THE BEST possible advice a friend can give a returning war veteran is GO BACK TO SCHOOL.

Thanks to the GI Bill of Rights, a service man may complete his education in a leading college or university without cost.

Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, president of Boston University, was absolutely right when he told the Sunday Advertiser:

"Any young man who does not take advantage of the generous educational opportunities in the GI Bill of Rights is so shortsighted that he will, in all probability, in later years, describe himself as an unmitigated fool."

A YOUNG MATRON of Greenwich, Ct., is the mother of three sons, all born on Sept. 27, with four years between each successive event. So now she believes she is going to have a son every four years on the 27th of September. I knew a woman in Arizona who had three sons each born on Christmas Day, with a period of two years between each birth. How convenient it would be if all women knew exactly when their next child would be born. If somebody called up and invited them to dinner, say on Sept. 27, they could answer: "I would like very much to come. But I am having a baby that day."

PHARMACY: Enrollment in pharmacy courses are far below normal. One university in New York which has an average of 85 enrollments has only 16 this year. At present pharmacists in New York are being paid from $65 to $70 for a six-day week. Incidentally, window washers in Manhattan are being paid $60 for a five-day week. Young fellows studying pharmacy should plan to go into business for themselves with the idea of handling prescriptions exclusively. Why couldn't a pharmacist hang out a shingle just like a doctor and run his business from a small office?

BEAUTIFUL OBJECTS: It was Macaulay who said: "The most beautiful object in the world, it will be allowed, is a beautiful woman." I agree with the old boy. But what is the second most beautiful object? I can't make up my mind whether it is a thoroughbred racehorse or a black and white springer spaniel.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q. There are theaters in New York City named after producers, actors and actresses. Why none after a playwright? A. How about the Broadhurst theater named after George Broadhurst?

Q. Remember George's hit, "Bought and Paid For?" Suzanne Lenglen ... Q. Who would you name as the greatest woman tennis player of all time? A. Suzanne Lenglen. Q. Who is the patron saint of housekeepers? A. St. Martha. ... Q. What were the racing colors of "Father Bill" Daly? I have a small CHICKENS: Am informed a man had a roadside market in Michigan, where he sold around one thousand live chickens daily to passing autoists. THE LETTER, written on the stationery of Elliott's Texas state network, his radio chain, was dated Fort Worth, March 1, 1941.

It was placed on record on Feb. 14, 1944, by Carroll L. Beedy, counsel for a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Agriculture which was investigating the administration of the R.E.A.

THE WITNESS was Claude Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture and director and supervisor of the R.E.A. by Roosevelt's appointment.

Beedy asked Wickard if he had told the late Senator Norris, of Nebraska, "the story of the alleged maladministration that had occurred under Secretary Wallace, before you came in, that had been reported to you?"

Wickard couldn't remember, and his memory failed him as to several more questions.

Then Beedy asked him, "Did you have any ideas at the time about what you were going to do about it?"

"Yes," Wickard said, "but I don't think it would be in the public interest to discuss these at the present time."

"We (the committee) are trying to find out what has been done by you to remedy alleged maladministration, to investigate charges of wrong-doing," Beedy continued.

Wickard persisted in his stand.

Now Beedy came to the Brazos transmission line in Texas. The Texas Power and Light Company, a private concern, "didn't want this R.E.A. project to be built," he said. Mr. Wickard did condescend to say that he had discussed this case, "with some people down in Texas." But to a direct question he refused to name these people.

Q—"Did you discuss it with Elliott Roosevelt?"

A—"No, sir."

Beedy then presented Elliott's letter to "Steve." It was three pages long and a plea to "Steve" on behalf of Texas Power and Light.

THE LETTER granted that it was a good idea to extend electric service in West and Central Texas but said there was "no excuse whatever" to establish "experimental plants" or "yardsticks" in the Eastern area.

"I am genuinely and personally interested in this thing," Elliott wrote "Steve." "I know that it involves a major policy but a policy which has not so far received the sanction of the President. It is new and untried. It might, if unsuccessful from the standpoint of providing adequate and continuous service, do more harm to the rural electrification program than good. I know these people down here and I know they will do anything necessary to a full co-operation with any Federal agency and still stay in business."

"If you need any facts," Elliott wrote, "call me and I will get them or tell you who to get in touch with. Please do everything you can to see to it that nothing is decided until I can see you in Washington—probably next Wednesday evening if you're available."

Mr. Beedy seemed to think this intervention by the President's son through the White House in a matter affecting big private capital interests was pertinent to his own interest in irregularities in the R.E.A.

"I refer to it," he said, "because I have been questioning the Secretary (Wickard) about what he did to investigate any charges with reference to malfeasance or misfeasance in the administration of the R.E.A., either within or without it."

THESE MATTERS, he remembered, Wickard seemed to regard as none of the public's business.

Beedy said he was informed that the power-line eventually was built with R.E.A. money and a colloquy developed the clear fact that there was a rivalry in which Elliott's friends, the private interests, wanted the power for sale for profit.

The nature of Elliott's own "genuine" and "personal" interest, as to whether he might gain money, was not brought out. There was no statement as to whether his friends paid him a fee for by-passing the appropriate authorities to appeal straight to his father's chief secretary and occasional vicar.

FAIR ENOUGH

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—A Senate document, hitherto apparently overlooked, reveals Elliott Roosevelt in the role of lobbyist for a private electric power corporation in Texas whose interests were threatened by the Rural Electrification Administration.

Elliott addressed an appeal, in behalf of the Texas Power and Light Company, to some one in the White House whom he addressed as "Steve," apparently Steve Early, then his father's principal secretary and a man of great power and influence and decision.

The letter, written on the stationery of Elliott's Texas state network, his radio chain, was dated Fort Worth, March 1, 1941.

It was placed on record on Feb. 14, 1944, by Carroll L. Beedy, counsel for a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Agriculture which was investigating the administration of the R.E.A.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—Sabu, our returned war hero, will give the "Tarzan" yell with Johnny Weissmuller in "Tarzan in Burma." My young friend, the former "Elephant Boy," has the right to make a picture outside his universal contract and he chooses the jungle classic.

Lana Turner

Only once before has "Tarzan" been out of his native African jungle and that was when he made a trip to Manhattan. But Burma is up Sabu's street since he was born in India.

The idea of Sabu playing in Tarzan comes from E. Lloyd Sheldon, who has been in retirement the past two years. Lloyd wrote the original story which Sol Lesser, producer, liked so much he asked the writer to co-produce the film.

YOU'LL ADMIT Clark Gable and Lana Turner together spell loxoffice. MGM cleaned up in their co-starring pictures, "Honky Tonk" and "Somewhere I'll Find You." There is something about the two that Mr. and Mrs. Public like, so I am not very much surprised that Lana will be the love of Clark's movie life in "Lucky Baldwin." But don't hold your breath, because Clark told me he is going to take a long, long vacation before he starts work again, and he has just finished "Strange Adventure." They tell me on the MGM lot Lana will surprise the world in "The Postman Always Rings Twice." It is her best movie to date.

NOW IT'S Randy Scott who is getting around to playing one of those Humphrey Bogart roles—the charming smoothie with a heart of ice cubes. That's something new because heretofore Randy has specialized in strong, silent Westerners whose chief line of dialog is "Be careful what you say, podner." But Andy Lawler tells me Randy will do "Lonely Journey" at 20th and that he will play a not-too-honest gambler with ice water running through his veins. That's something I want to see.

MICKEY ROONEY will be without his movie mother when he comes back to the movies. Fay Holden, who hasn't played anything but "Ma Harvey" for eight years, has obtained her release from MGM. But that doesn't mean she's getting away from the "mother" idea, for she'll be Susan Hayward's Ma in Walter Wagner's "Canyon Passage." She has resolved to free lance and plans, after she finishes mothering Susan, to go to England and help her mother observe her 75th birthday.

ALL THESE stories about Greta Garbo's stage and screen plans seem to be somebody or other's inventions. Yet, right from New York, I hear Frey Brown has been on Broadway trying to get a playright to dramatize "Riksha Boy," book of the month. Garbo apparently read it and liked it and felt if she could get a good play from the story she would do it. I could see no reason for Frey, who is Gaylord Houser's "Good Man Friday," asking for a playwright unless she is serious about the play.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Who was the lovely blonde with Jack Oakie? He refused to give her name, but she must be a new "Oakie"; Cornel Wilde has bought Norma Talmadge's Benedict Canyon home. This is the fourth home the Wildes have bought in two years, always selling them at a profit. Norma has bought another house in Beverly; Barbara Stanwyck is disappointed and doesn't care who knows it. Lt. Robert Taylor still remains in service and has been transferred near Chicago and doesn't know when he will get out; Rex Harrison is scheduled to sail from England October 3 to come to Hollywood for "Anna and the King of Siam." Well, that's all they are waiting for; no one need get excited over seeing Lana Turner talking with Steve Crane. They were discussing their daughter, Cheryl. Lana is sooooo in love with Turhan Bey she hasn't a thought in her head for any other man—and that's the truth.

"THIS IS THE ARMY" has folded in the Pacific because so many of the boys are getting discharges and returning to the United States; Author James Gunn, who wrote "Deadlier Than the Male," is doing a Hollywood epic called "Sound Stage." He says he is showing picture people as serious hard workers. At least, that is something different. It will be the first time Hollywood had a good word said.

"There's been a leak!" Mr. Sentner got all agog and whipped out his notebook. "Where?" he gasped. "Who's working on it?" "The plumber!" "The plumber?" "Naturally," said Mr. Adamson. "It's in the ceiling!"

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Landy's restaurant always has been a place in which to gather fascinating show business lore, but few stories emanating from there have given me such a giggle as this one. . . . The count of the recent feud between Count Basie and, of all people, Harvard University.

Off-hand, you might imagine the relations between these two distinguished institutions would be distant, but, on the whole, cordial. Not so though, Harvard worked itself into a considerable stew, and all because the count collaborated with George Frazier on a tune called "Harvard Blues."

The college objected to the song mainly because the lead sheet carried a reproduction of the seal of Harvard University. Therefore, they wrote a number of indignant letters to the publishers, requesting that all existing copies of the song be called in and no more ones released until the insignia had been removed.

All this had the effect of making "Harvard Blues" something of a collector's item for members of the swing set, many of whom are probably young men from Harvard. Basie was philosophical about the whole thing. I understand, but the notion of Harvard getting peeved at the count is of a sort usually dreamed up only by Damon Runyon.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Sen. Warren G. Magnuson of the great State of Washington—the vacationist's paradise, tourist rates on request—came through the other day with the most plithy description of the nation's capital I have ever heard.

Sen. Magnuson

"Ah, Washington!" sighed the Senator, rapturously. "Washington—with its Northern charm and Southern efficiency!"

MRS. EDWARD J. SMITH, of Melwood Farm, social arbiter of the hunting and fishing set of Upper Marlboro, Md., has long been bewildered by the many changes in the State Department. Consequently, the beautiful Ann has composed a song hit, dedicated to Dean Acheson, new undersecretary of state:

"Let's hope the State Department's going to stay. On the Acheson, Topeka and Santa Fe."

I SEE where the much-married Margaret Rutherford has remarried her third husband, Prince Murat.

The lady has had quite a romantic career, having begun as the daughter of the late Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Sr., and been successively, Mrs. Ogden Mills, Lady Dukes, Princess Murat, and Mrs. Freder Sprague, with interludes in which she was interested in the doings of Oom, the Omnipotent, Loving Guru of the Tantriks.

I remember many times trying to interview Oom, who had a cult near Nyack, N. Y., because it seems the city editors of that era were very intrigued with the idea of a guy being the Loving Guru of the Tantriks. There was something about the name and title that got us—even if we never found what a "Guru" or a "Tantrik" was.

We never got to know, because neither Oom nor his disciples would tell us. Maybe they felt we are not loving enough to appreciate a Tantrik; but whatever the reason they were always very aloof toward us un-Tantrik gentlemen of the press.

Those were the days of many cults. Love and romance were very highly thought of in those dreamy times—and many hope love will come back. It has been recurrently popular down the ages, although, by comparison, with Princess Murat, I doubt whether I got my fair share.

Anyway, I am very glad to hear that Mrs. Vanderbilt's daughter has gone back to Prince Murat, who has the distinction of being a descendant of Napoleon's brother-in-law, the King of Naples.

ALL VISITORS to Washington in the last four years know more than they probably want to know about the hotel situation. They know it is hard to get a room and even harder to hold onto it after you get it. By agreement, all hotels have a ruling that no transient may stay over seven days. This means that a guy who has business taking eight days or more has to scout around for a new hotel room for the rest of his stay.

The other day Marshall F. (Mac) Bannell, well-known publicist, was notified by the Statler that his seven days were up. He pulled all the wires he could, and finally got a room at the Washington.

Unpacking there, he discovered he had left his best baby-blue pajamas at the Statler, so he ran back and knocked at the door of his old room. An amiable-looking fellow let him in.

Mr. Bannell found the pajamas and then got into a conversation with the new occupant. He described to him he had been beaved out of the Statler but had found haven in the Washington.

"What room have you got there?" asked the fellow.

Mr. Bannell told him, where-

Lemon, Strawberry Juices for Facial Glamor

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

NO MATTER how you view it, a beautiful skin is the beginning of beauty. A lovely complexion enhances the brilliance of your eyes . . . the lustre of your lips . . . the radiance of your cheeks . . . and even undistinguished features take on charm when the skin blooms clear . . . glowing with fresh, vivid color.

This is a season of elegance, with emphasis placed not only on fashion design . . . but on fabrics that are soft-textured, featherlight in weight, and sophisticated in color. And the hairdos are the epitome of feminine freshness.

Well, the least we women can do is to revamp the texture of our complexion . . . give it a good going over . . . virtually knead it into downy softness if our facial personalities are to be a timely obligato to the fluid freedom of our clothes. Cosmetic coloring has staged a return to the rosy hues . . . with complexion softness slightly tinted with the blush of youth.

TONIC FOR TIRED FACES

This strawberry lotion is one you wouldn't commonly come in contact with. It is as fragrant as a curdial . . . with the rich, full-body of an invigorating tonic . . . and a tonic it is for a tired, sallow face . . . an effective astringent of totally different proportions. And, when used with a featherlight refreshing cream compounded from a fresh lemon juice base . . . acts as an exhilarating cocktail on the complexion.

Lemon juice and strawberry juice . . . a combination good enough to drink . . . but better still a simple routine that is certain to revive the complexion with almost instantly noticeable results. When many of us are fading out from our respite under the sun . . . when freckles and sun spots are slowly receding into the nothingness of color from which they came . . . it is solid beauty wisdom to treat the complexion to these two facial awakeners . . . a lemon cream for softening lubrication and mild hastening of the bleaching process . . . and a strawberry lotion to re-invigorate the feeding of blood to the face in a stimulation of tissue circulation.

For the names of these facial awakeners, phone Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IT TAKES a heap of good-looking face to wear this Xochimilco hair dress which Nellie Manley designed for Paramount lovely Ann Dvorak . . . For any of the new hairdos your complexion must be as alabaster smooth as Ann's. For this hairdo . . . the front hair is waved back, the sides separated, braided, wound around the head. Sides are brought over the braid ending with three flat curls in back.

NOTHING COULD be simpler nor any smarter than this pink wool creation of Clare Potter. Pink wool as lush in color as the pale flush of a setting sun. Deep armholes tapering to a bracelet-length sleeve, high neckline to accent throat jewelry, banded waistline caught up in soft crushing folds all add up to an interesting silhouette that justifies the fashion cry of elegant femininity.—R. 'Home' Party For Hero

Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Tuesday, Oct. 2, 1915

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: The husband of my sister's daughter is to be discharged from the Army next week, and my sister is planning to give a party at her house in their honor, inviting the members of the two families, some other relatives and a few intimate friends. Is it necessary to give them a gift on this occasion?

It is not "necessary" to give the couple, or the returning serviceman a gift on this occasion, although it is proper and generous of you to make this gesture if you wish. Perhaps you might prefer to wait and give them a gift for their home when they start (or restart) housekeeping. It will, of course, be comparatively easy for you to decide about what gift would be most welcome to them, since you can consult your sister about it.

Uncle Sam still needs all your waste kitchen fats so take them to your butcher. You get four red points per pound now.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY.—You have many fine characteristics; intuition; keen recognition of right from wrong, good from bad. You are greatly affected by your surroundings, thrive best with harmony. A born initiator of voice, action. Develop soundly your individualism, watch temper; and stand on your own sturdy principles. Be moderate in pleasures. Birthdate: of Cordell Hull.

Hint for Popularity

Have you been trying for a long time to get people interested in you? With not much success? Give your technique a turn-about, and for the next three or four weeks direct your eyes and ears and heart to becoming interested in other people. Talk "YOU," not "I." Be alert to listening, real listening. Being interested in others begets interest in you . . . and you're on your pleasant way in the great art of making friends.

MRS. BEECKMAN.

Wants Her To Wait

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I've been going with a young man who is 22 and I am 21 years old. He says he's in love with me and asked me to wait for him until he can offer something besides love. He has just come home from the Army and is starting on a new job.

I do like him very much and enjoy his company, but something seems to hold me back. I can't explain what it is, but it stops me from telling him I love him. I want to be absolutely certain he's the one for me.

I have a good job, and right now am earning more than he is. I want to travel—have always dreamed of that. I like nice clothes and expensive things. I know it sounds cold-hearted and selfish. I thought some day I'd settle down to a home and a family, but not until I have had what I want out of life, or until I find someone who will give me what I want.

Do you think I'm right, or will I regret not having taken him seriously? I haven't given him any answer.

KAY.

With the uncertainties you harbor concerning what you want in life and the present inability of this young man to give them, you are to be congratulated on being sufficiently sensible not to rush into matrimony. You say you have a good job, you want to travel and you like expensive things. It would be very unfair to the nice young man, I think, who is honest enough to say he has nothing but his love to offer.

Can Green Tomatoes

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

THERE'S nothing that gives a homemaker greater satisfaction or more assurance that her family will be well fed next winter than looking along the shelves of her pantry at the work of her own diligent hands—her own home-canning. Judging from the number of letters we have received recently, there is still keen interest in canning among homemakers. Even though the war is over, commercial supplies will still be short for the coming year, and it is up to homemakers to salvage all they can from their back-yard gardens.

Since there have been many requests for green tomato recipes, we think this a good time to devote a column to this subject. Most homemakers know the various pickle recipes using green tomatoes, but we wonder how many have tried them fried and served with sausage or other meats. You're sure to like them—just dip in seasoned flour and brown on both sides in hot fat.

And how about green tomato mincemeat for delicious pies and puddings in the months ahead?

GREEN TOMATO MINCEMEAT

1 peck green tomatoes
2 lbs. white sugar 3 lbs. raisins
Juice 3 oranges
2 tbsp. cinnamon
4 tbsp. salt 1 tbsp. allspice
1 lb. finely chopped fat
4 lb. canned lemon peel
Juice 4 lemons 2 cups cider
1 peck apples 2 lbs. currants
1 glass currant or other tart jelly 3 lbs. brown sugar
1 tbsp. cloves 1 tbsp. mace
1 lb. candied orange peel

Chop tomatoes finely and let drain. Add sugar and fruit juices. Let come to a boil slowly and boil 20 minutes. Add apples finely chopped or sliced with remainder of ingredients to this mixture. Cook slowly until all fruit is clear, about 1½ hours. Pour in jars. Wipe off sealing surface of jar, put on rubber and cover. Partly seal, or seal, depending upon the type of jar used. Process in water bath for 10 minutes. Remove from canner and seal if necessary.

PICCAILLI

1 peck green tomatoes
1 pint large gherkins (cucumbers will do if small)
1 green pepper ¼ lb. salt
2 medium sized onions
1 qt. cider vinegar ¼ lb. sugar
1 tsp. pepper corns
1 cup celery seeds
1 tsp. mustard seeds
¼ tsp. whole cloves

Chop the tomatoes, gherkins, peppers, and onions (may be put through food chopper using largest knife). Mix with salt and set aside for 12 hours. Drain well, then press to get out all free liquid. Heat the vinegar, sugar and spices, add the chopped pickles and bring to the boiling point. Pack into jars hot, wipe off sealing surface of jar, put on rubber and cover. Partly seal, or seal, depending upon the type of jar used. Process 5 minutes in hot water bath. Remove from canner and seal if necessary.

TOMATO PRESERVES

Select slightly under-ripe fruit. Blanch, peel and slice 5 pints of tomatoes. Add 3 cups sugar and let stand overnight. Drain off the juice and boil rapidly until it threads when dropped from a spoon. Add tomatoes and juice of 2 lemons. Boil until thick and clear. Pack hot into hot, sterilized jars and seal immediately with hot sterilized covers.

Other suggestions for using tomatoes may be found in two leaflets published by Massachusetts State College—"Use the Last Tomato" and "Tomatoes on Your Table." These are free to residents of Massachusetts. Write to the Mailing Room, Massachusetts State College, Amherst, Mass.

Russian Blouse for Fall

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THERE IS a new, soft look to some of the finest of the fall dress fashions, a look that is taken from the Russian blouse silhouette. The bloused waist and soft pleum around the hip-line above a slim skirt make this silhouette one that is flattering to many needy figures.

Omar Kiam, a good designer, has done this kind of dress for Ben Reig, and Miss Dulin has sketched it for you to see. This particular model is made of black crepe with a very slim skirt that serves to show off to the best advantage the Russian bloused top. Black grosgrain makes the narrow collar with a bow tie at front and also the set-in belt with bow ties.

A handsome gold choker necklace is a Ben Reig jewel that goes most effectively with this dress.

Crashing Plane Tips Win Prizes

Two alert citizens, one from West Medford, the other from Wakefield, who saw an Army bomber coming down in flames on a Melrose golf course, divided top awards of $3 each in the weekly news tip contest conducted by the Boston Daily Record-American and Sunday Advertiser. In this contest, the weekly pool has been advanced from $25 to $50.

Five prizes of $3 each went to a Belmont tipster for his information on a $7500 safe robbery, a Burlington man for first word of a high school pupils' strike, a Roxbury girl for her quick flash on the Chelsea shooting of a Boston police officer, a North Revere woman for her eyewitness description of a plane accident, and a Burlington man for his story on the electrocution of a boy while retrieving a football.

In addition, there were 11 awards of $2 each during the week and three of $1 each to quick-thinking readers who noted news and conveyed it quickly.

Alert readers, to cash in a share of these weekly awards, need only to call Liberty 4000 and ask for the Tip Editor. If the caller has a good tip—and he's first with it—then he's in the prize money.

'Pinocchio' Show For JVA Guests

Within a day or so, commanders of Junior Victory Army corps will receive the guest tickets to enable them and their fellow officers and sponsors to see "The Wonderful Adventures of Pinocchio," now showing at the Majestic and Tremont Theaters.

The tickets are good only at 9 o'clock Saturday morning and were dropped in the mails yesterday.

This thrilling treat is a reward to the officers for spearheading the campaign for destruction of ragweed and other war activities.

Suspense, music, laughter and drama make up the full length technicolor feature "Pinocchio."

The main picture will be supplemented by short subjects to make up a two-and-a-half-hour entertainment, one of the best ever arranged for Junior Army officers and their compatriots.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army headquarters, P. O. Box 228, Boston, ~~Mass.~~ If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

An Ode to Youth; Best In Sport Still to Come

By AUSTEN LAKE

IT'S HUMAN HABIT TO HOLD the present in contempt. The snows of yesteryear seemed deeper. Aunt Maggie's cookies seemed sweeter. The girls were prettier and the boys more gallant. The giants of sport were mightier.

Austen Lake

The city's tax problems were less agonizing. But science and history prove 'taint so!

Meteorological reports show that winters now average with the winters in granddad's day. Pastry bakers have perfected the commercial cookie to a new pinnacle of taste and nourishment. The girls reveal more of their charms and the lads are more proficient in the parlor arts. Muscular measurements have grown larger and play opportunities broader and better supervised. And, in his 1849 inaugural address, Mayor John Prescott Bigelow lamented "Last year (1848) Boston's tax rate soared from $6 per $1000 to $6.50 . . . If the ratio of increasing expenditure continues, it needs no gift of prophecy to foretell the city's financial ruin."

How Gold Is Golden?

SO WHAT? SO I SUBMIT that the time is not far distant when this nation will enter another Golden era of sport with new crops of famous-name athletes to replace our war-withered heroes. I have the notion that sprinkled round about the country there are boys and girls, now emerging from the chick-shell of adolescence, who will frame sport's golden age of tomorrow. Some fuzzy headed tyke in the anthracite coal regions or Texas oil fields will become the wizard of fistic slug, as Jack Dempsey did after the last world war. The homerun hitters, the tennis bums, the hockey heroes, the varsity touchdown-scorers, and all that horde of future stars are spindle-legged colts and fillies now, a few miles from becoming mighty. The best is yet to come—unless our civilization crumbles and a radical minority seize America's way of life.

ODDLY! An era is golden only in retrospect! I doubt that sports writers were conscious that the Twinkling 1920's were golden until long after they were over. I can recall how the authors blew razzberries at Babe Ruth and Jack Dempsey and Helen Wills and the great masters when you and I were young, Maggie. Even Babe Ruth had his quota of belittlers.

Today's postwar period is comparative with the dawn of the Twinkling '20s. We may anticipate the same Money Madness that made the '20s golden in a literal sense. The stock market was roaring and there were tons of fresh money! The Florida land-bum was typical and "Coolidge prosperity" was the by-word! Ponzi ran his larcenous hoax! Tex Rickard and his 600 Millionaires promoted prize-ring extravaganzas and sold $60 ringside seats a gunshot from the ring! People paid $1 a shot for speakeasy hooch. It was a delirious decade made famous for vulgarity and fun. How gold is golden?

SPORT FLOURISHES as the nation prospers and the size and stature of the Big Time games depend on the ebb and flow of American industrial ties. The people's spending capacities create big turnstile receipts which in turn sponsor better competitive shows and a wider search for individual marvels of muscularity. That goes for college football as well as our commercial games. The customers just won't patronize a show if it is punk, which the promoters know, both amateur and pro. Both are in business for profits!

There have been other golden eras in sport, all during boom times. There was that period when Hugh Fullerton was writing his essays for Cosmopolitan Magazine and Grantland Rice was just launching his heroic style of sport page worship. Ty Cobb was at his peak Connie Mack had insured his Athletics infield for the amazing sum of $100,000. Frank Gotch tossed Hackenschmidt. Chick Evans was the wizard of golf. Courtney's Cornell crews monopolized Poughkeepsie. Jim Thorpe was performing his all-round miracles. Willie Hoppe was the boy wonder of billiards. And wasn't that a golden era?

AND EVEN BEFORE THAT, when sport was just aborning for the privileged few. John L. Sullivan was the idol of the fancy! The infant sport writers were thumbing their dictionaries for greater glory word for Alfred Kraenzlein of Penn. Walter Camp of Yale. George and Fred Wright of the Cincinnati Reds. Cap Anson of the White Sox. Bob Fitzsimmons and Jim Corbett. And wasn't that a golden era?

Personally, I think that today's youth, as a whole, is potentially better at its job than we of past generations. Our masses of fighting men in this war stood up under hazards and conditions previously unknown to the history of man. Army records show that the average soldier is inches bigger and pounds heavier than his World War I daddy. Track times have been shaved thinner and game skills have expanded. Facilities and equipment have improved, and were cheaper and more plentiful until wartime.

AMERICA'S athletes today are starting from scratch. Thus, if the immediate future produces fewer giants, more athletes will be playing better, the pace will be swifter and the margin of superiority narrower. And for a brief while the era of monopoly which produced a Bobby Jones, Joe Louis, Henry Armstrong, Eddie Shore, Sonja Henie and Babe Didrickson, will flatten out.

Yet another age of athletic giants will come! For always on the heels of the current heroes comes the sound of following footsteps. Always on their necks is the hot breath of kids who will inevitably beat them! Then will begin the new golden era when as-yet-undiscovered youth will surpass the speed of Glenn Cunningham's legs, the anesthesia of Joe Louis' punch, the elfin elegance of La Henie's skates, the epic feats of Hank Greenberg, and the pulverizing power that was once Eddie Shore's. And for a little while that will become a Golden Era with as-yet-unknown sport page literati penning descriptive wonders and gems of ridicule for the future daddies who are the kids of today. Then the future papas in turn will tell their as-yet-unborn children, how much deeper were the snows of yesteryear, when the girls were prettier and the boys more gallant. I trust that science and history will prove 'taint so!

Luck Tags Greenberg

By BILL CORUM

DETROIT, Oct. 2 (INS)—That Old Lady Luck . . . What a dame! What a dame! She can be cross-eyed, pigeon-toed, toothless, and wrinkled like a disgusted persimmon and be so beautiful she all but busts your heart. Look what she did to my pal, Hank Greenberg, in the rain and mist and muck of that dramatic ball game that won the American League pennant for Detroit down in old St. Louis Sunday. Man, she really had him on the run before, all at once, she up and threw her arms around him and gave him the big kiss that made him the hero of the story that he deserved to be.

For Greenberg, four years in the Army and fighting his way up to a captaincy in the Air Corps, a star who had seen almost four seasons chopped out of his short baseball career at a financial cost of around $150,000, was so close to being the Merkle of 1945 that you could all but hear the bleacher woves warming up for next spring.

Big Hank, who had come back to the Tigers in no shape to play baseball, but who had played on swollen, painful ankles, with bleeding, blistered hands and with nothing much to offer but grim determination and the courage to go on swinging for that long one, had just about upset the Tigers' tottering appellate for good.

He had got caught off third base on one of those plays, excusable enough in the slippery footing. But, for all that, one that looked as though it meant the ball game, maybe the flag.

It looked as though Greenberg had come all the way back from the war in the Pacific to pace the Tigers to the championship and lead them in hitting, as he has, only to wind up as the unmitigable goat whose "rock" had cost in a half-minute everything it had taken so many tough and trying weeks to win.

But right here Lady Luck ceased to frown and turned toward the suffering Henry with one of her most dazzling smiles. Headed, and seemingly beaten with only three outs to go, the Tigers wouldn't, couldn't, stop clawing. They got a couple on with one out.

Playing the percentage and also for third money, Luke Sewell, a tough man in such a sport, ordered Nease Potter to pass Cramer to take a chance on Greenberg. Smart psychology, too, for it is difficult for a goat in any sport to reverse his field.

But our Henry only knows to swing. He swung at one of Potter's tantalizing sliders and met the ball with all right. But it was tagged all right. But for where?

That was where Lady Luck took charge. By inches, perhaps the length of a lead pencil, the ball was fair as it left the playing field.

When it landed, they tell me, it was at least 10 feet foul. But where it landed didn't matter. It was a home run. A grand slammer. And the long, hard road the sturdy O'Neill and his bounce-back Tigers had traveled since they took the American League lead in midsummer had come to a safe haven and a happy ending.

Borowy Plays Key Role in Series

DETROIT, Oct. 2 (INS)—Hank Borowy, the slim, mid-mannered former New York Yankee, seemed destined today the key role in the drama of the first postwar World Series, starting tomorrow at Briggs Stadium, between the Chicago Cubs and the Detroit Tigers at 1:30 p. m.

As the two contesting teams went through their first and final workouts on the local field's soggy turf, Borowy began to shape up as the one individual most likely to determine the final outcome of what may be the richest World Series in history.

Grimm Finds Bunks For Nine Tired Cubs

DETROIT, Oct. 2 (AP)—Nine members of the Chicago Cubs slept late today to catch up on their rest after spending half the night seeking hotel rooms.

With their wives, the group had been booked at rooms in an excursion boat tied up at a dock to help take care of the hotel overflow.

Objecting that accommodations were limited, the couples sought out Cub Manager Charley Grimm at his hotel. Grimm, after extensive effort, found rooms for all.

Six Cub first stringers were in the group, which included four pitchers. They were Phil Cavarretta, first baseman; Len Merullo, shortstop; Bill Nicholson, center fielder; Peanut Lowrey, left fielder; Roy Hughes, shortstop, and Pitchers Hank Wyse, Charles Passeau, Paul Derringer and Bob Chipman.

Chicago Games To Begin at 1:30

CHICAGO, Oct. 2 (AP)—Chicago's portion of the World Series games will begin at 1:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time—which is also 1:30 p. m. in Chicago.

The city remained on Central Daylight Time (the equivalent of Eastern Standard Time) when the rest of the nation reverted to Standard Time last Sunday. This year Chicago clocks will be turned back one hour on October 28.

Cantab Coach Gets Yanks Prepare for Redskins

Ready for '46 Slate

By MIKE GILLOOLY

It's been a long time since the Cambridge Latin fans have had a real team, one of which they could justly boast one like the team which copped the championship in the old Suburban League, against such teams as Malden, Everett, Newton and Medford.

That old team had Johnny Temple, Hughie McCusker, Reddie Hilliard, later killed while playing for New York University, Fred Harlow and Fat Popoli.

What has happened in the University City since those days? If Cambridge Latin played a schedule like that now it would be a slaughter week after week.

The main reason, and a most important one, according to Adam Elcewicz, the head coach, is lack of material, both personnel and equipment.

Elcewicz, the old Fordham star has been butting his head for five years now trying to mould a winning team out of a small group of disinterested players. He has only 31 players on his squad, when smaller schools round about have as many as 120 from which to choose. The majority of this small group is seniors.

However, for the first time since he took over the reins he has visions of a good team, not this year, but next.

Though the team which has already been badly beaten twice, by Milton 19 to 0 and by B. C. High, 44 to 6, will not be much, it has a number of boys, juniors and sophomores, who if they come back next year will make every one sit up and take notice.

In addition to these boys, Elcewicz has set up a junior varsity squad which is coached by Frank Frisoli. This J-V squad has already contributed handsomely, grooming Jack Cawley, who played a grand game for a losing cause against B. C. H. and Dan Mazurek, the right halfback. Both are juniors, who will do better weekly, as they gain experience.

LINE LACKS EXPERIENCE

Tom Lyons, a transfer from Georgetown Prep where he played, is the fullback. Last week he started as quarterback, but could not follow instructions too well and swapped places with Cawley.

The only regular back from last season is Earl Daurie, the left end, 6 ft., 1 in. At the other flank is Dick Walker, a lightweight at 150.

The tackles are held down by Manny Lakis and Fran Heffernan, tipping the scales at 170, while Bob Sordillo plays left guard and Ken Lyons right guard. Lyons played a little last year as an end but was converted to guard spot, where there was a bad hole.

Jim Lang, a stringy, six footer, weighing 155, is pivot man for the squad.

The line of course is the root of all evil for Elcewicz because of its greenness, but there is a silver lining, for there is one made up of juniors, including one letterman, Steve Biddle who reported for practice late, to take over one of the tackle positions. His running mate is Chuck Pope, a transfer from Chicago. These boys scale about 175, good tackle weight.

At guards, Adam has Buddy Montieth and Bob Loggan, the ends are Bob Nugent and Billy Herman. These lads stand 6 feet 2 inches and 5-11 respectively, both weighing 155.

Tom Kenny, a 5-foot 11-inch lad, centers for this line. If all these boys return next year, wow!

Next Saturday, Cambridge seems certain of another defeat when it meets Quincy High at the latter's home field, after Quincy Latin plays at Rindge, Oct. 12; at Belmont, Oct. 20; at Weymouth Oct. 27; Norwood, Nov. 3; Brookline, Nov. 10; at Arlington, Nov. 17.

This is "Pass Defense" week for the Boston Yanks. In an effort to stop the Redskins' Sammy Baugh and Frankie Filchok, who will disport at Fenway Park Sunday, Coach Herb Kopf is setting up all manner of defenses.

"You just can't stop them completely," said Kopf of the league's leading aerial combination. "They're too good. Our job is to outscore them."

Filchok and Baugh finished 1-2 in National League passing last season, and off their play against Green Bay and Detroit, seem to be on their way to setting new records.

Against the Packers, 14-44 champions, Baugh completed 15 of 20 air shots, Filchok 6 of 13. Their football player in Chicago's scholastic history. He's just out of the Navy.

Bob McKelvey, former assistant to Harry Stuhldreher at Villanova, has 32 men out at Boston University, 26 of them freshmen. He has a fine physical specimen in Adee Mahfood of Jamaica, who runs like Herb McKeeney. Only drawback is that Mahfood has played only rugby and isn't familiar with blocking or tackling.

Tufts dropped two games to Harvard last fall, 19-12 and 13-7. Saturday the teams will go at it again, and another rip-snorter is promised. . . . New England collegiate headlines this week promises to be Holy Cross vs. Yale. The Crusaders have terrific power if it is harnessed, and Yale has an A-1 passer in Art Dakos, Lowell boy who shone brightly against Tufts. . . . Dartmouth, smart and fast, will be outmanned by Penn. . . . BC is playing at Brown.
